LOSS OF VOICE
After Acute Bronchitis
CURED BY
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.

PLAYING DOMINOS.

Mistress Morning—well she knows how to play at dominos. With the children, blithe and gay. Wide awake at break of day. First she shows her bluest sides, Matched by Mary with her eyes. Next she plays her broccos light. Matched with Lucy's laughter bright. Then she throws her sunshine true. Matched with smiles by merry Lou. Flowers come now, sweet white and red. Matched by Josie's flowerlike head. For each charm the morning throws In this game of dominos. Something sweet the children bring. Matching her in everything. If the game goes thus all day, Who will be the victor, pray?
—Amos R. Wells in St. Nicholas.

A MIDNIGHT MIRAGE.

It was nearly midnight. The ironing was done, and the clothes lay heaped on the table in snowy piles still hot from the iron. Ann Quinn drew a chair up to the little kitchen window that overlooked the river and sat down with a sigh of pain, for her back ached. She rested her chin in her hand and stared through the faint tracery of familiar objects on the glass to the water beyond, lying dark and glossy under the stars. "I wonder if Miss Niles wants that chipped beef for breakfast," thought Ann Quinn, for she was both a cook and a laundress. "Guess I'll fry them cold potatoes left from dinner, too," she continued, her eyes resting on a faraway cluster of electric lights that trembled like a diamond pendant.

Presently, as she sat there, the rim of the moon pushed itself up behind some trees on the opposite shore. Ann Quinn watched it rising, with a meditative look. "It's terrible red. Them little branches looks like they was drawn on it with a pen. I wonder what that black thing in the water is," she broke off as a feeling of moonlight slipped across the river to where something black and long bobbed stiffly in the current. She shaded her eyes from the lamp, and pressed her face close to the glass. "Looks like a man," she muttered. As she spoke the thing wheeled about and began drifting in toward the stone breakwater beneath the window. Slowly it drew near, the little moon sparks dancing in its wake. It floated into the shadow, and she strained her eyes in vain to follow it.

"Guess I'll go to bed," she said, giving one more look into the darkness. She did not go, though, for suddenly she saw a lean hand thrust over the breakwater, then another, and the next moment the figure of a man crawled out on the stone below her.

Ann Quinn started back, her heart pumping like a steam drill, for she heard the thick splash of wet feet coming up the steps, and she saw a face pressed against the window that she had just quitted—a drawn face, yellow, pale as the handkerchief knotted about its throat.

"Let me in, Ann Quinn," said the lips, though she heard no voice. "Let me in."

She stood staring, her broad cheeks whiter than the plates on the dresser behind her, but she did not move. The man waited a moment; then he pushed up the sash and swung himself into the room.

The lamp blinked and guttered in the draft, and a door slammed. Ann Quinn quivered from head to foot. The man stood looking at her with famished eyes. "A lifetime, a whole lifetime," he whispered at last, and his voice sounded cold and empty as the echo in a vault.

"Go away!" cried Ann Quinn. "And take your wet hand off my ironing." The man moved and stared at the piles of clothes on the table.

"Did you do that?" he asked in a low voice. "And are you tired?" "Yes, I did it, and I am tired," she replied, stealing her way stealthily toward the door.

As she moved, her terror lent a new, catlike grace to her awkward body. She looked almost like another woman in the swaying light—a woman with narrow, wicked eyes and lithe motions. The man stepped quickly before the door and stood there, his clothes flowing, the black river water on her clean floor.

"And all this time you have worked, while I have had more, a thousand times more, than I could use. And we have lived near each other here in the same city and never knew it." "He covered his face with his hands and groaned. "Our sin—what was it that we should reap such lonely years in punishment?" Then he moved toward her, his arms outstretched: "My love, my lost love! Give me one kiss, my first since that other grave closed over us."

Ann Quinn gulped, and her hair rose softly. "If you touch me, I'll kill you!" she said hoarsely, catching a knife up from the shelf behind her. The man seemed not to hear her; he grasped her in his arms and crushed her mouth on hers, and his lips were wet and cold.

Ann Quinn leaped away from him and buried the great knife in his heart. He looked into her terrified eyes, and a shadow fell on his face.

"See," he said mournfully, "you have stabbed me—again; but this time it is to late."

She looked, and there was no blood gushing from that great slash—only the drip, drip of the thick water. Then she covered her face and prayed, for she saw that the man was dead.

There was a long silence, broken by the chime of a clock in the house behind them. The man shivered. "An hour more, dear God, only an hour more!" he pleaded, and he wrung his hands, crying hurriedly: "How can I say it all! How can I make her understand!" He seized Ann Quinn's arm and shook her cely.

"Remember, woman! Try to remember! Have I forgotten? Have I not lived alone—waiting—and you never came?" She brushed her rough hand over her eyes, something stirred in her torpid brain. As the summer lightning, threatening the sky, will show a sudden pearly perspective of unseen cloud mass, then flash out, leaving the same blind night it found, so the soul of Ann Quinn opened for an instant beyond her wretched, work-tidden world, only to close again as quickly. The man caught her look and asked, his voice tense and quivering: "Those faded lilies of the valley, there in that cup, why did you keep them only from the flowers you threw away this morning?"

"They—they—smelled good," answered the woman, troubled, bewildered. "Only that?"

"Yes, only that."

"Have you never dreamed of some one you loved, some one apart from this miserable squalor I find you in?"

The blood flooded her sallow face. "What business is that of yours? Go away, I say!" she added weakly, giving him a push and catching at the table to save herself from falling.

"Tell me," he pleaded, "have you never missed me, who was more to you than those few short years ago than life or honor?"

Ann Quinn looked into his eyes and laughed. There was no mirth in that laugh, though, and he shielded himself as if she had struck at him. Then he spoke again.

"Listen," he said. "Tonight in a far land my soul will be born anew. Until then the veil is lifted. But we will cheat God and love and law—and I together. Soon my eyes will be blinded, and I shall not know you except by this. Take it and keep it always over your heart, and though you be old and bent, and though you be a little child, still I shall know you."

He thrust his hand into his breast and drew out a leather case. He opened it and pushed something toward her. She looked. It was a faded spray of lily of the valley. Then he reached into his pocket and threw a canvas bag down on the table. "Take these," he said.

"There is enough here to keep you from this drudgery." He pointed to the ironing. "And now I must be gone. The river calls to me."

They stood looking at each other in silence. The light swam before Ann Quinn's eyes, and everything blurred but that white face staring into hers. Near or far, it came, ever nearer, and she felt her muscles quiver in resistance, then grow lax; there was a pause, a gasping breath, and she had thrown herself into his arms. The cold ooze from his wet hair trailed on her neck. Closer and closer they swayed together, locked in each other's arms; then, with a strange, thin cry, like the wail of a newborn child, the man tore himself away and leaped from the window into the night beyond. There was a heavy splash and silence.

The wind had blown out the lamp. Ann Quinn groped her way to the table, dazed and stupid. She struck a match. It sputtered and went out. Then she crawled away into a corner, her wide eyes fixed on the open window. The moon swam high, and the river ran molten silver beneath it. The little stars set, and the gray scroll of morning unrolled across the night. Still she sat there, her eyes fixed on the empty window space.

INDEX-TRIBUNE

SONOMA, MARCH 21, 1896.

J. H. GRANICE, EDITOR.

The Bear Flag celebration is going to be the grandest ever held in Sonoma county, if not the finest ever held in the State. The Native Sons are going to push the matter and there is not a society in California that would not feel honored by an invitation to join in the celebration.

We are all glad that the Institute is coming to Sonoma. The committee worked well and succeeded. Now we must prepare to give the teachers the best time they ever had in Sonoma county. The various sub-committees are hard at work and from the enthusiasm displayed there is no doubt but that everything will go off in beautiful style.

ANYONE blessed with an atom of love for flowers should visit the fields at this season of the year. Though this valley is not in full bloom, there are beauties now that will not be seen a month hence. Wild pansies, blue-eyes and other dainty creations of Flora are smiling in the tall green grass. There is a freshness about the young shooting buds that acts as an elixir of life to the hum-drum work-day world. Go out and see the preparation that is being made for bounteous Autumn.

The citizens of Santa Rosa are doing their very best to make the coming Rose Carnival a grand success—no efforts are spared, every one is anxious to see the Carnival surpass every other celebration in the State. The most beautiful of the features of the Mardi Gras will be seen gracing the train. The beautiful in art is to be reproduced in many spectacles. We all wish Santa Rosa success and under the able management of Mr. J. C. Sims we expect the Carnival to be a fete long to be remembered in the State of California.

The Editor.

"Who weeps with you when you are sad, and laughs with you when you are glad, and swears with you when you are mad?" The editor. Who has to be both kind and wise, and never (hardly ever) lies, and when he does, catches surprise? The editor. Who owns a heart as well as cheek, is possessed of a spirit proud but meek, and lives on 40 cents a week? The editor." Hilarious Exchange.

Who rarely what he says recants, but wears a liver pad in his pants, when mad subscribers kick and prance? The editor. Who bears in a patient, gentle way the man who "just drops in" to say, "your paper's dogged one" to-day?" The editor. Who loves the cuss who will not talk and stays till 4 and will not walk? The editor. Who when he gets to heaven will look on men delinquent on his book, and smile when they're by Peter "shook"? The editor.—A. J. W. in Fresno Republican.

Beware of Counterfeiters

Who infect the market and are the means of robbing sick people of their money, and what is of still greater consequence of not infrequently aggravating the complaints under which they labor. It is an act of duty we owe to society to warn the people against these dangerous frauds. A little care on the part of the purchaser will protect them from imposition by bearing in mind these facts: Never buy where it is offered in bulk, (in kegs or jars) as the genuine Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are sold only in bottles having the handsome steel plate label displaying the combat between St. George and the Dragon, and having at the bottom a miniature note of the signature of the president of the company. Over the cork is a metallic cap, on which is impressed the name of the article, together with a medalion head in the center. Any person selling the counterfeit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters shall not hesitate to bring to justice, as we never fail to convict.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and

Palpitation of the Heart.

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, self-control, vigorous health, and is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Edwin Lord Wins.

The civil suit of Crudginton vs. Lord was tried by Judge Cheney Tuesday afternoon. A large delegation of Embarcadero people were present as witnesses and spectators. After listening to the testimony Judge Cheney gave judgment in favor of Mr. Lord. The suit was brought by plaintiff to recover $140, alleged to be due him for seven months' wages. It was clearly proven that Mr. Lord had given Crudginton, who is an old man, a home during the past winter and that he had been called upon to perform very little labor. After the decision of the court Mr. Lord very generously handed the old gentleman $10 as a present.

Death of Mrs. Phoebe Chart

Mrs. Phoebe Chart died at her home on Broadway last Wednesday morning after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Chart came to this valley 29 years ago with her husband, Obed Chart, who survives her at the ripe old age of 90 years. The deceased was a consistent member of the Congregational Church and a true Christian woman in every sense of the word. She was born in Oxford, England, and was aged 76 years and 28 days. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place Thursday afternoon, the remains being interred in Valley Cemetery.

Captured a Peculiar Animal.

A large rat or diminutive kangaroo was captured alive in the vineyards of Carl Dresel one day this week. The animals fore legs were very short while the hind legs were exceedingly long, and it resembled a kangaroo in every way if we except size. The animal chafed and fretted for some time after its capture and finally died. It was the first creature of its species ever seen in this valley.

All Serene at El Verano.

F. S. Douty, Secretary of the Pacific Improvement Company, requests us to state that the result of the investigation of F. A. Riser, its Superintendent at El Verano, who was charged by his neighbors with boycotting them, showed that he was not at fault in any manner—that the entire trouble was the result of a family quarrel between two or three neighbors.

Start an Improvement Club.

Why don't Sonoma start an improvement society, having for its object the beautifying of our streets and Plaza? Nothing helps to attract people to settle in a place as much as shade trees, clean streets and pretty gardens. It adds ever so much to the attraction of a town and indirectly to its prosperity.

Agua Rica Springs.

A meeting of the directors of the Agua Rica Hot Sulphur Springs will be held to-day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boyes. All the directors are expected to be present to make arrangements toward improving the springs for the coming season.

JOAB POWELL.

He Will Not be With Us to Celebrate the Raising of the Bear Flag.

Expires at His Home in San Jose—One of the Early Pioneers of California.

Joab Powell, an old pioneer of Sonoma, will not be with us on the 14th of June to celebrate the semi-centennial anniversary of the raising of the Bear Flag in this place in 1846. He expired at his home in College Park, San Jose, on the 7th inst. He was a brother of Moses Powell, formerly of this place, who married one of the daughters of the late lamented Nicholas Carriger.

The San Jose Mercury, in commenting on Sonoma's pioneer, says: "The deceased at the time of his death was only 47 years of age, and yet he was one of the earliest pioneers of California. He arrived in the State in June, 1849, when he was three months old. His parents, John and Sarah Jane Powell, left Mississippi with a large ox train of emigrants in January, 1849. En route at Salt Lake City, on March 1st of that year, Joab, their second son, was born. The hardships of the train with oxen in those very early days were very great, and few feeble adults, not to say anything of babies, arrived. Several other babies that were born on the train died, but Joab survived to reach California and Sonoma county in June, 1849, where his parents lived for many years till they came to San Jose."

The Pioneer Society of Sonoma county, during his residence there while he was a boy and young man, recognized Joab Powell as the youngest pioneer of California. Records, it is claimed, fully substantiated this pretension of the Sonoma Society, and their youthful member on that account was given considerable distinction and attention at gatherings of pioneers.

After moving to San Jose the parents of Joab Powell died of consumption, and following them seven children were stricken with the same disease. Moses Powell, an older brother, also a resident of San Jose, now remains alone alive out of a family of nine children. Joab Powell was ill for several years with the disease that proved fatal to all the remainder of the family. He had a good constitution and much nervous energy and grit, but finally had to succumb.

The deceased was one of the oldest members of the National Guard in the State, and he was devoted to the service. All his life the militia was his chief delight, and his faithful and efficient service made him highly esteemed by all the officers and men. He had been a member of the State militia for eighteen years. He was presented and received with much pride a ten year service bronze medal that was awarded by the State. In two years he would have received a twenty year service gold medal. Fourteen years ago the deceased was transferred to Company B from Company C at Petaluma. He soon became a corporal, and for the last seven years had been Quartermaster-Sergeant of Company B, which position he occupied at the time of his death. In this office he had charge of all the arms, uniforms and equipments generally of the company. He was remarkably efficient in this responsible position.

Sergeant Powell, in conversation with his comrades the past year, frequently referred to his failing health and the certainty that he would soon die. At these times he expressed a desire to have a military funeral under the auspices of Company B. About a year ago he loaded a number of blank cartridges that he carefully placed away and gave instructions that they should be used in firing the last salute over his grave. These cartridges were in possession of the firing squad of the company and were used by them in firing the last volley over the closed grave, in accordance with military custom.

The deceased was also a member of San Jose Grange, and the pall bearers were composed of members of that organization. Before his health began to fail the deceased was always actively engaged in agricultural pursuits. He left some real estate and improved property, including a comfortable home on Morris street, near Myrtle, in College Park, where he died. He was married a few years ago, and leaves a widow, but no children.

Gray Fox Killed.

Wild animals are becoming scarce in the mountains surrounding this valley. Occasionally, however, a mountain lion, deer, foxes and coyotes are seen. On Wednesday Carl Dresel shot and killed a large gray fox a short distance from his residence. The sly animal had been purloining Mr. Dresel's chickens for several weeks and when killed, true to his instincts, he was prowling around in the vicinity of a hen coop.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

SONOMA CARRIES OFF THE PRIZE.

Preparations Being Made on a Grand Scale to Entertain Her Guests.

The Teachers' Institute is ours this year. On Saturday last by a unanimous vote of the Board of Education of Sonoma county it was decided to hold the next Teachers' Institute in Sonoma. The Institute will convene on Monday, April 20th and continue five days.

For years the INDEX-TRIBUNE has labored to secure Teachers' Institutes, County Conventions and similar gatherings, and now it has the proud satisfaction of at last seeing its efforts crowned with success. An abiding faith and hard work have received their reward in so far as the Institute is concerned and now it remains to be seen if we cannot capture both the Republican and Democratic County Conventions the coming summer. A long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together by our citizens will land them both in this town.

Much credit is due to Supervised Thompson, R. M. Sims, Fred. T. Duhring, Robert Poppe, W. E. Thomas, G. S. Harris, M. K. Cady, A. A. Enke and other citizens in securing the Institute. They waited upon Superintendent Davis and the Board of Education and were assiduous in setting forth the claims of modest and unpretentious Sonoma.

Now, that we have secured the Institute, it behooves every good citizen having the welfare of the town and valley at heart to get in and do all in their power to do Sonoma proud during the stay of the teachers.

LON PERKINS.

Sonoma's Seal—Hunter Shipwrecked—His Narrow Escape

Lon Perkins, who is well-known to every old resident of Sonoma and a noted seal hunter, was one of the crew of the "Mattie T. Dyer," which was wrecked on a coral reef five hundred miles from Honolulu on Washington's Birthday.

During his long experience as a seal hunter Mr. Perkins has had many thrilling experiences. He has been attacked by polar bears in the frozen north, and only saved his life and those of his companions by his coolness and steady aim, he having killed two of the animals in a single combat that weighed over 2000 pounds each. He has had the deck of a ship blown from under his feet by an explosion of gunpowder in the hold of the craft, been separated from his ship and tossed about for days in a small boat before being discovered by his shipmates, but in an interview with an INDEX-TRIBUNE reporter Lon says the experience he has just passed through over-topped them all. He thought he was going to Davy Jones' locker this time. After the schooner struck there was great confusion on board and after three life boats had been smashed in an attempt to launch them Lon Perkins and his companions succeeded in getting away with the four remaining boats.

This being accomplished Perkins fearlessly reboarded the sinking vessel to secure a supply of food and tackle. He was no sooner on deck than the schooner commenced to settle. He then jumped into the sea but managed to get clear of the schooner before she took her final plunge to the bottom. He then swam to one of the four life boats into which he was assisted by his occupants. The shipwrecked hunters then headed toward Honolulu, five hundred miles distant. For eight days they were tossed about in an open boat exposed to the torrid rays of the sun, without food or water, if we except a little canned fruit, the seas washing over them continuously. On the afternoon of the eighth day the boat reached the island of Nihaui, and the shipwrecked hunters were kindly cared for by the natives. The other boats had reached the island two days before.

Mr. Perkins, who is a cousin to Ralph Perkins, Wells, Fargo & Co's express agent in this place, is a man of iron constitution and it is said he passed through the torture of being eight days without food or water better than most of his companions. The castaways arrived in San Francisco last Monday from Honolulu on the cruiser Bennington, of which Lieutenant Elliot, father of Stewart and Malcolm Elliott of this place, is one of the officers.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

And Other Matters of Interest to the General Reader.

(Contributed by Marjorie Dow.)

Items of a personal and social nature are thankfully received at this office and will be edited by Marjorie Dow.

Mrs. C. F. Badger, formerly of Sonoma but who left here for Boston several years ago, has moved to New York where she will engage in business.

Mr. and Mrs. George Engler entertained last Sunday their cousin Mrs. E. Krelling, proprietor of the Tivoli Opera House, San Francisco.

J. P. McDonnell of the Sebastopol Times was in town Sunday.

J. Fochetti and H. H. Granice spent last Sunday in Petaluma.

The T. S. C. composed of Miss Kate Bowers' class of St. John's Episcopal School of Petaluma, visited Temelec Hall, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wickersham, on Saturday last. The young folks and their teacher were right royally entertained by their host and hostess. The day was pleasantly spent in rambling over the 1,800 acres attached to the hall, picking wild flowers and a visit to the orange and lemon groves on the place. After partaking of a sumptuous lunch the visitors returned to Petaluma in the afternoon. The following composed the party: Miss Kate Bowers, Douglas Fyfe, Lafay Robinson, Marcus Goshen, Hiram Hopkins, Hugh Rodgers, Frank Achuff, Fred. Graham, Berkeley Bryant and Percy Ellsworth.

Mrs. Chas. Dalpogetto came up from San Francisco Sunday after a stay of several weeks under treatment in St. Mary's Hospital.

Wickwire—Sometimes I think it would be a good idea if a man could be treated like a horse—shot when he gets too old to work. Yabsley—"It is about that way now. When a man gets too old to work he is fired."

Miss Laura Burt, a popular actress, has her black silk stockings embroidered with human hair of rich golden or Titian red shades. Perhaps that accounts for the wonderful hose that have crept into fashion, but, cui bono, not all women are chorus singers.

R. E. Perkins visited San Francisco on business last Monday.

Rev. C. E. Chase returned from a visit to the metropolis Monday evening.

Howard Munfrey was in the Bay City last Sunday and Monday.

Col. G. F. and Mrs. Hooper have returned to their beautiful country home, Sobre Vista, after spending the winter in San Francisco.

It is pointed out that a new and immense field for scientific investigation has been opened by the great Trans-Siberian Railway. Next summer the explorer can travel by rail to the banks of the Yenesei, at a distance of 3057 miles from St. Petersburg, and will have facilities for navigating the great rivers running northward.

Mrs. Champlin and her son Charles visited the metropolis last Saturday.

A pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Clara Cheney at her parents home on last Wednesday evening. Games with social conversation and music helped to pass the hours away. At a late hour all partook of the good things they had brought with them and finally at midnight the evening's enjoyment was closed with good-byes and well wishes for the charming young hostess.

Miss Louisa Dixon was given a jolly surprise party at her home on Friday evening of last week. The usual games and festivities with refreshments were enjoyed by the merry young folks present.

F. W. Russel has taken four of his children to San Rafael. The fifth child, baby Fred, will remain with Mrs. Champlin, who has tenderly cared for him since the death of his mother, which occurred nearly two years ago.

Clarence Nauman came up Wednesday from his city home to visit Sonoma friends.

Mrs. E. K. Stevenot returned from a visit to San Francisco Wednesday.

Miss Pauline Robin went to San Francisco Tuesday to visit her mother and sisters.

Mrs. W. F. Wade has been spending part of the past week with her husband in the metropolis.

Ernest Clewe entertained a number of his little friends in honor of his tenth birthday on last Saturday afternoon. Games and dainty refreshments gladdened the hearts of the little people present and many pretty tokens of their love and esteem were presented to Master Ernest on this the anniversary of his birth.

"By sports like these are all the cares beguiled. The sports of children satisfy the child."

Miss Mary Burke returned to her school near Petaluma last Sunday after a short visit with her parents.

Paul Robin has been spending the past week with his uncle, City Marshal Robin of this place.

The ladies of the Congregational Aid Society contemplate giving the cantata of "Esther" at their annual June festival. "Esther" will no doubt be received as well as was the cantata of "Ruth."

Thos. Jones was registered at the Brooklyn Hotel, San Francisco, this week.

Chas. Wyatt of Petaluma visited relatives in this place last Tuesday.

Mrs. H. E. Boyes will start early next month for her mother's home in England, where she goes to settle the estate of her brother who died last month in India of small-pox. Mrs. Boyes brother, Capt. Edwards, leaves a young wife only 19 years of age and a three months old baby to mourn his untimely end. The deceased was one of the most popular officers in his regiment. Mrs. Boyes expects to remain away until next fall.

Little Clayton and Della Pauli, children of Robt. Pauli, formerly of Sonoma, have been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Hardy, well-to-do people residing in Oakland. The other two children are living with their grandmother, Mrs. C. W. Lubeck, in Berkeley.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Basse left Sonoma Wednesday for their home in Seattle, after a pleasant stay with their cousin F. T. Duhring and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bondsdu with their two little sons are visiting at Rhine Farm.

Ex-City Trustee Seipp has returned to Sonoma after an absence of several months in El Dorado county.

Miss Barbara Nau and Wm. E. Goethe were married in the parlors of the Grand Hotel, Santa Rosa, by the Rev. Mr. Sheppard last Sunday in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

After the ceremony the young couple and their guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner, which had been prepared for them by mine host Morsehead. Mr. and Mrs. Goethe took the Southern Pacific train for San Francisco where they spent their honeymoon.

The following ladies and gentlemen were present at the wedding: Mrs. C. Wilke, Mrs. L. P. Evans, W. C. Bennett, G. Blucher, Pinole; Mr. and Mrs. Kruse, Mark West; Miss Emma Hoffmann, San Francisco; John Fridiger, Mrs. H. Krager, Dr. and Mrs. Boyes, Santa Rosa; Chas. Nau, Mrs. K. Peter, Mrs. M. A. Goethe and Rev. Mr. Sheppard.

Robt. Pasch left Sonoma last Wednesday for San Francisco where he will engage in business.

Lester Richmond has been spending his week's vacation in Sonoma. Lester is attending the Lick School in San Francisco.

Lieutenant Elliott of the United States cruiser Bennington visited his sons, Stewart and Malcolm, of this place last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dr. T. A. Nufer, Sonoma's veterinary surgeon, visited Napa on business last Tuesday.

Albert Wade of San Francisco visited Mr. and Mrs. Goess last Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. F. T. Duhring is visiting in Santa Barbara, where she will remain for several weeks.

Paul Wiget made a business trip to Petaluma one day this week.

Frank Burris took the train yesterday afternoon for a brief visit to the metropolis.

H. G. Maxwell is engaged in painting the scenery for the production of "The Merchant of Venice," which he intends to present to the students of the High School. Mr. Maxwell, besides being a musician of great merit, is also an artist far above the average.

The following leap year proposal was received the other day by a young gentleman of this place. He very sensibly responded by sending the bow of white.

If you are another girl's fellow.
Send me back the bow of yellow.
If for me your love is true.
Send me back my bow of blue.
If you want me for your wife.
Send me back the bow of white.
If you want me to elope.
Send me back the helicopter.
If your love for me is dead.
Send me back the bow of red.
If of me you often think.
Send me back the bow of pink.
